

Integrating Exegesis and Exposition is a handbook introducing Biblical study (exegesis) and the communication of the Bible in preaching and teaching (exposition). This method encourages communicators to incorporate the process of Bible study into the presentation of the message, so that listeners discover not only how to understand the portion of Scripture being communicated at that moment, but also so that they can develop their own skills in Bible study.

The premise of Integrating Exegesis and Exposition is that the processes of study, practice, and communication of the Bible are interconnected. The relationship between these suggests that to encourage transformation by the renewing of the mind, communicators of the Bible ought to take a more holistic and integrated approach to handling the Bible – an approach that is modeled in the Bible itself.

Christopher Cone, Th.D, Ph.D, Ph.D, serves as Chief Academic Officer and Research Professor of Bible and Theology at Southern California Seminary. He formerly served as President of Tyndale Theological Seminary and Biblical Institute, Professor of Bible and Theology, and as a Pastor of Tyndale Bible Church. He also has held teaching positions at the University of North Texas, North Central Texas College, and Southern Bible Institute. He is the author and general editor of several books including:

- Prolegomena on Biblical Hermeneutics and Method
- An Introduction to the New Covenant
- Redacted Dominionism: A Biblical Approach to Grounding Environmental Responsibility
- The Bible in Government and Society
- A Concise Bible Survey: Tracing the Promises of God
- Dispensationalism Tomorrow and Beyond: A Theological Collection in Honor of Charles C. Ryrie
- Life Beyond the Sun: An Introduction to Worldview and Philosophy Through the Lens of Ecclesiastes
- Practical Aspects of Pastoral Theology
- Biblical Sufficiency Applied

“This fine book will be of interest and help to all who want to facilitate the growth of Christians – not just intellectual growth, but true growth in godliness. Christopher Cone’s biblical, original, practical, and well illustrated approach to transformative learning provides step by step instructions in studying and communicating the Scriptures.”

–Thomas L. Constable, Th.D

Senior Professor Emeritus in Bible Exposition
Dallas Theological Seminary

“There are books on exegesis. And there are books on exposition. But rarely do you see a book that puts the two together. Dr. Cone has done just that with both insight and comprehensiveness. Best of all, he illustrates each principle with case studies to show the learner exactly how to practice his principles. His work is a valuable tool for anyone who wants to bring the timeless truths out of God’s Word to a generation crying out for some meaning and direction in a world that seems to be spinning out of control.”

–Dave Anderson, Ph.D

President, Grace School of Theology

“Dr. Cone, throughout his ministry, has championed the vital necessity of rightly dividing and rightly delivering the Scriptures. He challenges all believers as voices of truth to uphold the processes of transmission that begin with careful preparation in life and study, and that close with accurate delivery to the audience of God’s choosing – be it a congregation, a classroom, or in an individual encounter.”

“From the example of Jesus Himself as well as the writers of the Scriptures, authentic teaching of God’s Word simultaneously targets the heart and the mind of the hearer. Dr. Cone’s book is a needed reminder to those who stand behind the pulpit or lectern, and an encouragement to the ones sitting in the pew that the teaching of the Word is the great privilege and command to all believers. For the believer, this book can be of great value in developing skills to be an able communicator of God’s Word.”

–Paul Benware, Th.D

Bible Professor, Theologian, Author

“In this book Cone provides a well conceived, highly organized path by which Bible students, Bible teachers and pastors may improve their ability to effectively communicate God’s word, no matter their level of experience or understanding. There is something here for everyone.”

–Patrick Belvill, Th.D

President, Tyndale Theological Seminary
Pastor, Tyndale Bible Church

“Integrating Exegesis and Exposition reflects the heart of a pastor who deeply cares for the growth of God’s sheep, and the mind of a first-rate academic exposing the fatal flaws of the prevailing mediocre pattern of modern Bible exposition. However, the value of this work is not simply in pointing out the problem, but in Dr. Cone’s process for correcting our missteps. This work should be required reading for pastoral students and every person in our pews.”
